The country road and through road in Rhoden has been renovated. Footpaths, parking lanes and sidewalks opening up into small squares with seating now characterize the townscape. In front of the community center, a round bench located around the new solitary tree invites you to linger. A watercourse at Denkmalplatz creates additional quality of stay and the opportunity to play with water. Planters with integrated seating elements delimit the square from the street. The memorial remains in its original location and has been moved back slightly against the wall. Commemorative plaques have also been placed next to the memorial. Access to public facilities and private houses along the road is ensured by new access points such as steps. New shrubs and trees have been planted along the road and private areas belonging to residents.
